Developers, City staff or elected officials are often in need of a consultant to objectively analyze the environmental effects of a proposed development. Ingraham & Associates prepared Environmental Assessment Worksheets (EAW's) for a variety of residential, commercial and mixed-use projects. We have also managed environmental impact studies and conducted other environmental and land use studies.

Our EAW's include compiling site data, outlining project magnitude, listing permits required, past, present and future land use and any potential environmental, infrastructure, visual or community impact the new development will have. We also identify mitigation actions and alternative solutions to environmental issues.
