

Putting Green Environmental Adventure Park

New Ulm, Minnesota

Ingraham & Associates and Gary Hittle prepared the master plan for Putting GREEN, which is a unique and visionary environmental learning park along the Minnesota River in New Ulm, MN. The plan combines interactive environmental learning focused on sustainability within an 18-hole mini golf course.

Each hole, or learning station, is based on a different environmental theme. The plan features:

- An interpretive center
- Trails
- Rain gardens
- A river research monitoring station
- A performance stage
- Outdoor rooms designed to educate visitors about habitat and ecosystems.

The plan incorporates the use of recycled materials including benches and eco-pavers used on the outdoor terrace. The performance stage serves as a civic space for outdoor events.

Reference: Dr. Laurel Gamm
 Putting Green Executive Director
 New Ulm, Mn
 507-276-1241

Status: First nine holes complete

Putting Green's Signs are not your typical hole marker. They inform the visitors of each hole's Environmental issue.

Putting Green's Master Plan

